West	North	East	South
1NT	Pass	1C	1H
	Pass	3NT	All Pass

After overall of 1H by South over East's 1C (Standard), West had ample ammunition to bid 1NT and his partner took chances to bid 3NT with 14 HCPs and a 5-carder suit.

North on lead was well aware that with both opponents showing heart stopper, there was nothing much in leading partner suit and opted to lead Spade 6. Fearing that South may have the spade King, East played low and partner after scoring the Ten, returned another spade. East won and played the club King, which was ducked. Now declarer can score 2 tricks each in suits other than clubs. So 3 clubs are required and for that declarer can give 2 tricks in clubs. Thinking this declarer played the CQ, which was won by South, who now led the D10. West won with Ace and played the 3rd club, won by South, who played another diamond.

Declarer now got stuck in hand and only hoped for heart Ace with north, which was not to be. He can even try playing HQ from hand, but South can duck that and now declarer has to go down. Though the hand was allowed to be made on many tables, it surely had a nice defence.

West	North	East	South
Pass	2D(2)	4H	2C(1)
5H	5S	Pass	4S All Pass

The precision players usually have the tendency to open a strong hand with long suit as 1C, but here the stunt was tried by South with Standard 2C opening.. West could have taken some action with his 10 red cards, but being VUL, he rejected the idea. North duly bid his waiting 2D bid and now not realizing what South was upto (he never looked like doing these stunts), he tried to intervene to the hilt with a 4H bid. Now South duly bid 4S and West bid 5H but finally it was not clear what was happening on table (courtesy the marvellous 2C opening) and South played in 5S going 1 down.

It is not known how many players played in 6H (6S is a good sacrifice over that) but surely the above bidding takes the cake.

The possible bids could be 4S – Pass – Pass -5H – 5S – 6H and now it has to be seen whether a sacrifice can be found by N-S or not.
