GOLD & SILVER WALTZ - Mark Horton

If there is no Test Match or football to listen to, my radio is frequently tuned to Classic FM. One of yesterday's offerings was the overture to Franz Lehár's The Merry Widow. I couldn't see how that might be the title for this particular event, but then I recalled another of the composer's best known pieces, the Gold and Silver Waltz - perfect as Team Russia and KI Plus began the final.

Not an easy hand for EW, especially if West cannot come in over 1NT. Would it have helped if West had bid 3♠ over his partner's double? East could then bid 4♣, which might encourage West. After the continuation 4♦-4♥ West might risk 4♠ and if East then bids 5♣ the excellent slam will be reached. It always looks so easy on paper, don't you agree? Declarer claimed 12 tricks at trick one, +680.

It was even harder after the 1♦ opening and preemptive response.

East led his diamond and West won and returned the eight, East ruffing and playing the ♥9. West won, gave his partner another ruff and the ♣K was the defenders fifth trick, -300, but a 9 IMP loss.

If West had found a heart lead declarer would have been forced to play to pitch a heart on the third round of clubs, which works on this layout. After the lead of a spade to the ace declarer shortened the play by claiming, +420.

Holding the sort of hand I usually associate with the rubber bridge table, East ignored the dictum of Terence Reese 'I can only pass and hope to be on the winning side' and doubled 5♥. When North confirmed that he held a first round control in hearts South was happy to bid the slam. East led a diamond and declarer won with dummy's ace, played a spade to the ace, unblocked the hearts, went to dummy with a spade, pitched a diamond on the ♥Q, ruffed a diamond high, drew the outstanding trump and claimed, +1430.

It looks as if East showed spades and clubs and West decided there should be a play for a slam.

South led the ♥7 and declarer ducked, won the next heart with dummy's ace, cashed two spades, unblocked the clubs, ruffed a heart, ruffed a club, cashed dummy's diamond ace, ruffed a diamond and drew the last trump, +1430.

EW appeared to be on their way, when West suddenly called a halt to proceedings. Holding two aces perhaps East should have bid a Last Train 4♥ over 4♦? The 13 IMPs that Team Russia had given upon the previous deal had been recovered and although they trailed 24-29 there was a long way to go.

When the first session of the final did not deliver much in the way of excitement I decided to look at Sessios 2.

North led the ♠10 and declarer won with dummy's ace, South following with the six, and played the ♣4 for the queen (not a play the Rabbi would have approved of) and king. Now playing either major leaves the defenders in charge, but North switched to the ♦4 and South took declarer's jack with the king and returned the ♦9. Declarer won with the ace and advanced the ♣10, going up with dummy's ace. When North discarded it was all over as South won the next club and played the ♠Q, one down, -100.

North led the ♥6 and declarer won with the ten and played on spades, North winning the third round as South pitched the ♦3. When North played the ♦9 declarer put up dummy's king and when it held he continued with a club to the ace and cashed two spades. When the ♣Q fell under the king there were nine tricks and a dozen IMPs.

Against 3♥ he led the ♠6 and that was covered by the jack, king and ace. Declarer's ♦K was taken by the ace and North returned a diamond, declarer winning, cashing the ♠Q and ruffing a spade. At this point playing a heart to the nine ensures ten tricks, but declarer played a heart to the ace and followed it with the ♠10. When that held he continued with the ♥3 and North took the jack. With the club suit frozen North can hold declarer to nine tricks by cashing the ♥K and exiting with a heart, but he went with the ♦7. When declarer put up dummy's queen he was back to nine tricks, +140.

If East had raised to 4♥ North would have needed to start with two rounds of diamonds to be sure of defeating it.

North's lead of the ♠6 was covered all round and declarer continued with the ♥A followed by the queen. North won and played a second spade and declarer won and played a heart. North took the jack and played two rounds of diamonds. Declarer won and cashed his winning hearts, pitching a club and a diamond from dummy. That was too much for South, who elected to throw a club. Declarer cashed the ♣A, followed it with the ♠10 and then played a club to the ten for +630 and 10 IMPs.

To defeat 3NT North must switch to a club after getting in with the ♥K. If declarer plays dummy's ten and takes the king with the ace to play a heart North can win and play the ♣J.

4♥ looks a trifle optimistic.

South led the ♠K and declarer won with the ace and played a diamond to the ten followed by a second diamond. South ruffed and continued with two rounds of spades, declarer ruffing and playing the ♦A. North had pitched two diamonds on the spades and he ruffed and could have collected 2000 by drawing trumps and playing a club, but switched to a club and South won and returned a club, so declarer 'escaped' for a mere -1400.

West led the ♦10 and East overtook it with the jack and switched to the ♣6. West won with the king and gave his partner a ruff so that was +140 and 15 IMPs.

Incredibly, KI Plus had won the set 59-0 to lead 95-23. You could hear the fat lady clearing her throat.

Thanks Mark. It was great working with you. All of us enjoyed your in depth and crisp analysis, language and promptness. We had a blast. Cheers, Mate!

CREATURES OF THE NIGHT

The Bulletin Team - Burning The Midnight Oil

Burning the midnight oil till the wee hours, going over proofs and layouts again and again, till we are ready to print, it's a tiring job, but then again, it's what we love and what we do. Joining us in this endeavour, but maintaining reverse timings, is Mark Horton, our overseas Editor, who is up with the birds, to capture the proceedings of the first round daily.

And the Photo Editors, who came on board, for the first time, have done a fantastic job. They are here all day.

This is in essence, the Bulletin Team, the Creatures Of The Night.
