With last round to go, England were in good position playing on table 3 but had a real bad set against Jalan's team losing 25-3 to go out of the contention, whereas Poddar Developers on table-5 had a nice set against Boat House Club in the last round beating them 24-6 to enter the quarter-finals.

2C*=DON'T; Dbl=Better hand

The open room auction came alive when Subhash Gupta probably playing Capellati bid 2H to show Hearts and a minor. Who the hand belonged to no one knew till the dummy came down.

The live auction saw north get in with 2S. What is poor East to do holding two doubletons. It looked like partner having the red suits, so east passed. South raised to 3S and Subhash doubled to show a better hand. East bid 4C expecting partner to bid his red suit and must have been surprised to become the declarer. South Passed 4C, which was the killer bid, as it transpired, even though 4S is a toss at the wall.

The closed room auction was equally esoteric. West bid 2C, DON'T, to show clubs and another suit making life less complicated for partner. North got in with 2S and east after freely bidding 3C took the save, bidding 5C over south's duly bid and making game bid of 4S. He got duly whacked and was very pleasantly surprised when 5C doubled was made by the partner. Declarer ruffed the spade lead and played the DQ, won by south, who shifted to the HK. Winning the HA, he cashed the DJ, ruffed a spade in hand and threw his losing heart on the diamond king. South was welcome to ruff. That was the last trick for the defence. Declarer lost the DA and a ruff.

The I-Doctors from Mumbai treated themselves to a 9 Imp pick up thanks to the DON'T system.

Coup Enpassant

A pretty little hand popped up where declarer scored his H6 enpassant, timing the hand perfectly

On the lead of the H8 declarer played the H9, covered by the 10 and won with the A. Next came the DA, spade ruff in hand, CA, club ruff, DK, spade ruff, DQ, club ruff, SQ, covered, ruffed and over ruffed by east with HQ. Declarer had scored three diamonds, CA and two club ruffs, HA, and two spade ruffs for nine tricks. This was the scenario in the three card ending:

The South in the open room fell in love with his cards and bid a solo 4S spurning a 5-3 heart fit. Dummy produced a trump void and he lost 3 trumps and a heart to give Formidables 12 Imps.

What would you lead sitting North in the open room against 3NT after the above auction?

Paul Hackett led the Heart Ace!!! It was a Gallery Lead when it fetched the king from declarer.

Declarer went down three, vulnerable. Of course without the lead too the contract would go down when North comes in with the CK. He must find the HA shift. Hackett made it more dramatic and brilliant when he led it. Take a bow Mr. Hackett.

Not being satisfied with having found the brilliant HA lead from AQ in 3NT, Hackett had become the Hatchet opening a weak two with the north hand in the open room. Callahan sitting east for England passed and South bid 3Ds showing a heart fit and diamonds goodies for a lead.

Killer Callahan judged the hand beautifully to bid an otherwise tough slam. Figuring that partner would be void in hearts and looking at a singleton diamond in hand he pressed the button, the good old Black, and finding the necessary dope- two key cards and the trump Q bid the slam. On a dutiful diamond lead by north and a trump shift by south declarer wrapped up the slam ruffing 3 diamonds on the table, along with six trumps in his hand and the CAK and HA.

The hand doesn't end here. On a trump lead can you make it?

Trump lead, diamond to ace and trump back where do you go? Try to think Double Squeezes. If north has to guard the heart and South the Diamond who will guard the clubs, huh?

Cashing the HA, declarer can ruff two diamonds and two hearts and now play his trumps out. Here's how it looks with west on lead with the last trump:
